

*Results Oriented Reliability and Maintenance
Management Consulting and Training*

Run your plant. Don't let it run you!

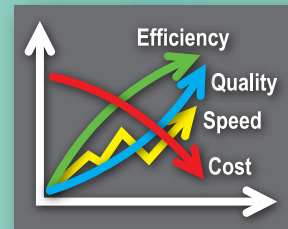

Bring common sense reliability consulting and training to your plant.

Remove the pressures of unreliable equipment

Find a clear path
to achieve reliability

Reach the organization's maintenance goals

*Are you tired of constant call-ins and reactive maintenance?
It's time for a sustainable approach.*

A reactive environment leads to poor quality repairs and higher safety risks. Those poor repairs lead to re-work and an even more reactivity...we call this the "Circle of Despair"

IDCON coaches your plant how to break this vicious cycle and be more effective.

The four step process to achieving success

1 Understand the situation

Getting an objective view of how well your company is performing the essential elements of reliability and maintenance today helps to focus your improvement efforts.

2 Create a plan of action

We help your team build a plan concentrated on achieving your reliability and maintenance goals.

3 Together we implement that plan

Getting the quick wins will engage your team but keeping the momentum going can be difficult for plants. We provide the coaching, training and motivation needed until your team is ready to manage the process alone.

4 Reach your goals

We understand the pressure...

Improve Reliability | Reduce Cost | Improve Safety

Since 1972 we've been helping people improve reliability and maintenance at their organizations. Using a common sense approach focused how people work leads to fewer breakdowns and boosted morale.
